

“Make It Count”
Week of March 20, 2016
Psalm 90:1-17

CENTRAL TRUTH: Make your remaining days count for God.

1. What time is it in your life? That is, what season in life do you find yourself in right now?
2. Have you made the shift from asking, “How old am I?” to “How much time do I have left?” What kind of circumstances brings this topic to your mind? What goes through your mind when you think about the brevity of life?
3. Which do you find yourself doing more—treating this world like it is a permanent home or treating it like a temporary journey? Share evidence from your life to support your answer.
4. How do you respond to the question, “What is the point of life?” In what ways does your life reflect or contradict your answer?
5. Read this quote from Sunday. Then, answer the following questions.

The “heart of wisdom” (Psalm 90:12) is viewing your remaining days in the bigger context of God. It is about living for something bigger than yourself, putting yourself in the center of what God is doing....God’s work, purpose and story began even before you were born, and they will continue even after you’re gone. Indeed, God is from everlasting to everlasting (vv. 1-2). But, you get to be a part of God’s narrative while you’re on this earth.

- a. How do these words speak to you?
 - b. Practically speaking, what would it look like if you seized the time you have left to understand what the will of God is and put yourself in the center of what God is doing?
 - c. What area of your life is most affected by the thought that the point of your short time on earth is to make God the point, not yourself?
6. What one insight from the message or today’s discussion seems most personally significant to you right now, and what action can you take in the next week to start putting this into practice?
 7. PRAYER TIME: Ask God to show how you can put yourself in the center of what He is doing with your remaining time.
