PART 6: Amazing

INTRODUCTION

At some point in your faith journey, you will settle into a bargaining posture with God. “God, if you will, I promise I will ” We all do it. That’s just part of religion—every religion. In fact, it’s so much a part of human nature that even some atheists and agnostics do it when they find themselves in desperate circumstances. But is that really how God wants us to relate to him?

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Think about a time when someone let you off the hook. How did it make you feel?
2. What do you believe God wants from you?
3. Do you see yourself as a person who needs God’s grace? Why or why not?
4. In the message, Sam said, “God doesn’t negotiate because he doesn’t want something from you. He wants something for you.” If you believed this was true, how would it change the way you view God and your relationship with him?
5. Most people respond to the idea of unconditional grace with, “But what about . . . ?” What’s your “But what about . . . ?”
6. What is one thing you can do this week to shift from a bargaining posture to a posture of gratitude for what God has done for you? What can this group do to help you?

MOVING FORWARD

The good news is we don’t have to bargain with God. Christians believe that God made the first move. Christians believe that God so loved the world he gave his one and only Son. When you receive that gift by faith, the bargaining ends and the relationship begins. Obedience to God is a voluntary response of gratitude for what he’s given you.

*But God, being rich in mercy, because of His great love
with which He loved us,
even when we were dead
in our transgressions,
made us alive together with Christ
