We all have this sense of justice in us. How do you see evidence of that in your life?

Do you struggle to entrust God with the injustices in your life and around you? Why do you think that is?

Why is it important to see these 5 woes in Habakkuk 2:6-20 as both a warning and an encouragement?

Woe to the thief (vv. 6-8)- what you have will be taken. Notice the reciprocity of judgment in this text: the plunderer shall be plundered. What does this say about the justice of God?

Woe to the covetous (vv. 9-11)- what you seek will bring you shame. Talk about the illusion that money is for your own sense of security. How can it lull you into ignoring God as the one you ultimately trust in for protection?

Woe to the oppressor (vv. 12-14)- what you labor for will prove pointless. You can live your life for your own agenda, achieving it any cost, or you can live for what will last forever. Does your life revolve around the glory of the Lord? How can you make the glory of the Lord a more central focus?

Woe to the drunkard- what you drink will consume you. Discuss the Lord's cup together. Are you under God's wrath or His mercy?

Woe to the idolatrous- what you worship will not deliver. Technically, all 5 of these woes are an example of idolatry. What is idolatry? And where do you see it in your life?
